

Questions of Integrity

This year Transparency International New Zealand asked each political party to answer seven questions that are important to us - about – fighting corruption, integrity, accountability and transparency.

We would also like to suggest some open ended questions that voters can ask candidates . We know that many voters have the same concerns that we do.

Integrity and Trust

What does political integrity mean to you? What will you do to build trust in your leadership and your party?

Post pandemic recovery

As the country deals with COVID-19 response and recovery, what will you do to: (pick any)

- Prevent the misuse of public funds for personal gain
- Deliver relief fairly and transparently
- Protect democracy and fundamental human rights
- Respect Treaty partners

Political party and campaign funding

What actions are you personally taking to disclose your campaign funding from all sources? How will you make sure that money donated to your campaign is not given with the expectation of specific policy or action on your part.

Whistleblowers

Describe your attitude about whistleblowers who expose wrongdoing?

(or alternative question) Are there too many or too few whistleblowers in New Zealand, and why?
